The magazine is very professional, has loads of great information, marrying the cannabis industry with high tech. We continue to advertise with them, not only because of the quality of the publication, but also because of how great they are to work with to get our name out there through social media and great content."

#1 THE LAB // Solving the 3 Biggest Hurdle Challenges of Modern Day Grow Ops

Challenge #1 - Getting the Right RH
Relative Humidity (RH) is the amount of moisture in the air compared to the maximum amount the air can hold at that temperature. It's a critical factor in cannabis cultivation, as it affects the growth and health of the plants. Too high, and you risk mold and mildew; too low, and you risk dehydration and stress to the plants.

Most growers struggle to maintain the right RH, especially in larger-scale operations. This is often due to a lack of proper ventilation and dehumidification systems. The solution is to invest in high-quality, commercial-grade equipment that can effectively control the environment.

Because large-scale growers need to manage a much larger volume of plants, they need a more robust system. This is where the VRC comes in. The VRC is a powerful dehumidifier designed specifically for large-scale cannabis cultivation. It can handle up to 100,000 lbs of moisture per day, making it the perfect solution for large-scale growers.

Using the VRC, growers can maintain the right RH, ensuring their plants are healthy and thriving. This leads to higher yields and better quality cannabis. The VRC is a game-changer for large-scale cannabis cultivation, and it's the only dehumidifier that can handle the moisture load of a large-scale grow.
